

Clockwise Nick, Steve, Marta & Alex pictured at Bridey's Yard in Glastonbury recording the Pleiadian Love Dance album

Nick Ashron's

Elfin Spiral

Trevor Lloyd on violin

Nick describes Elfin Spiral music as 'tranbient' dance music, a fusion of transformational, transitional ambient trance music. The intent is to take the listener on a journey of healing and transformation to a higher state of being.

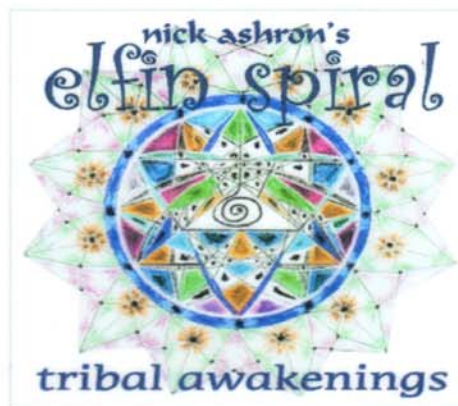

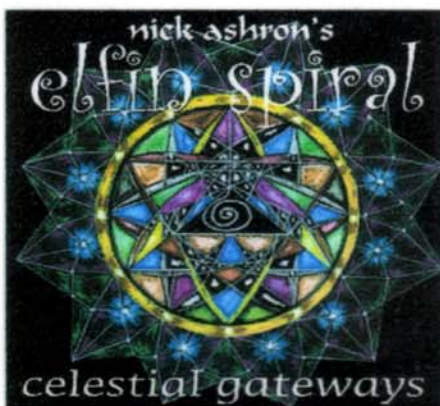

The themes that Nick has chosen for his Elfin Spiral albums incorporates his inspiration and understanding of his own spiritual journey which is documented in his forthcoming book 'By the light of the star'.

These came from his explorations and developments as a healer, then combining music with healing that are evident in his solo albums. He then developed his own ability as a psychic artist.

This journey opened him up to a vast array of information regarding our original ancestry documented in many tribal cultures such as the Native American Hopi prophecies and the Mayan calendar which indicate our origins from the stars. These themes were the inspiration for the earlier Elfin Spiral albums entitled 'Celestial Gateways & Tribal Awakenings'.

The new album 'Pleiadean Love Dance' continues the theme and will be performed for the first time at Glastonbury Town Hall on Saturday 27 August the band features a new line up of highly talented individuals which are Steve Mitchell on keyboards, Trevor Lloyd from the USA on violins, the divine Angel sisters Alex and Marta from Glastonbury on vocals and Nick on ebo and acoustic guitars. Nick welcomes all ye starry, elfin and fairy folk to the dance, cafe and licensed bar.

More info can be found on Nick's website www.nickashron.com

Nick's new Elfin Spiral Album
Pleiadian Love Dance